FOREWORD

The students of Bay View, who for four years lived in the atmosphere of war activities, suddenly, in the fall of 1945, found themselves in the slower pace of peace-time living, with the tension of war lessening gradually, and the school-at-war being converted to a school-at-peace.

Best of luck to a chum,
my grade school chum,
my high school chum,
and my life time
chum - see you
horseback riding
Love,
Ruth Zeidlhack

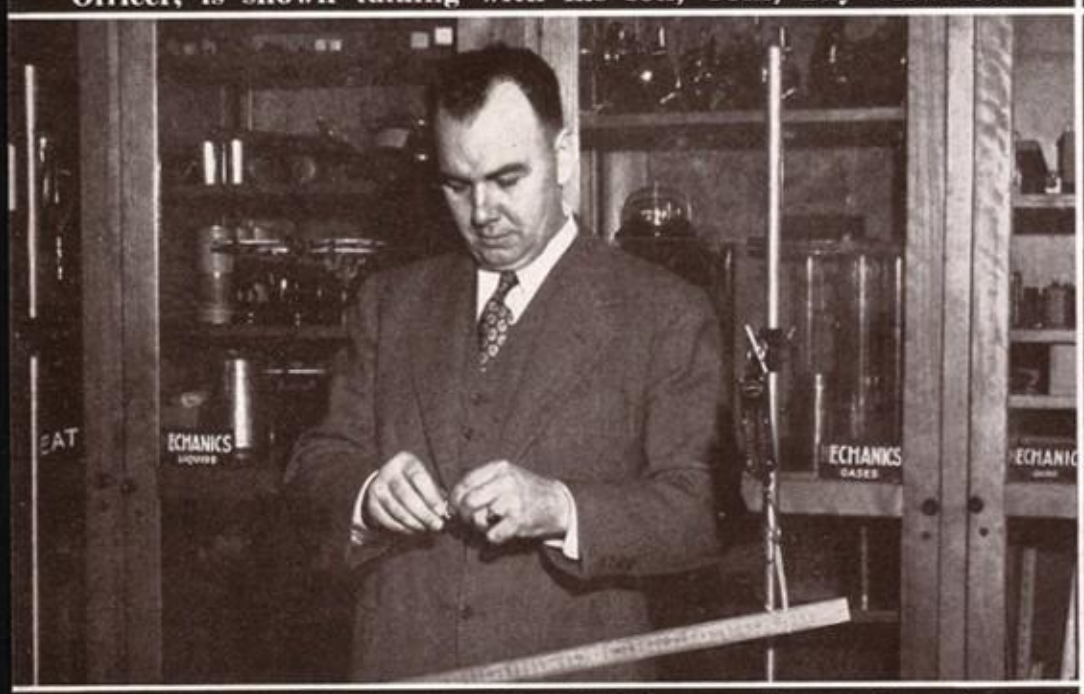
DEDICATION

To the vision of a better world rising at last out of the rubble of the past, to the vision for which fifty-nine Bay View boys laid down their lives in World War II — to that vision which must ever be with us through the stumbling present, we, believing in the future, dedicate this, the 1946 Oracle Annual.

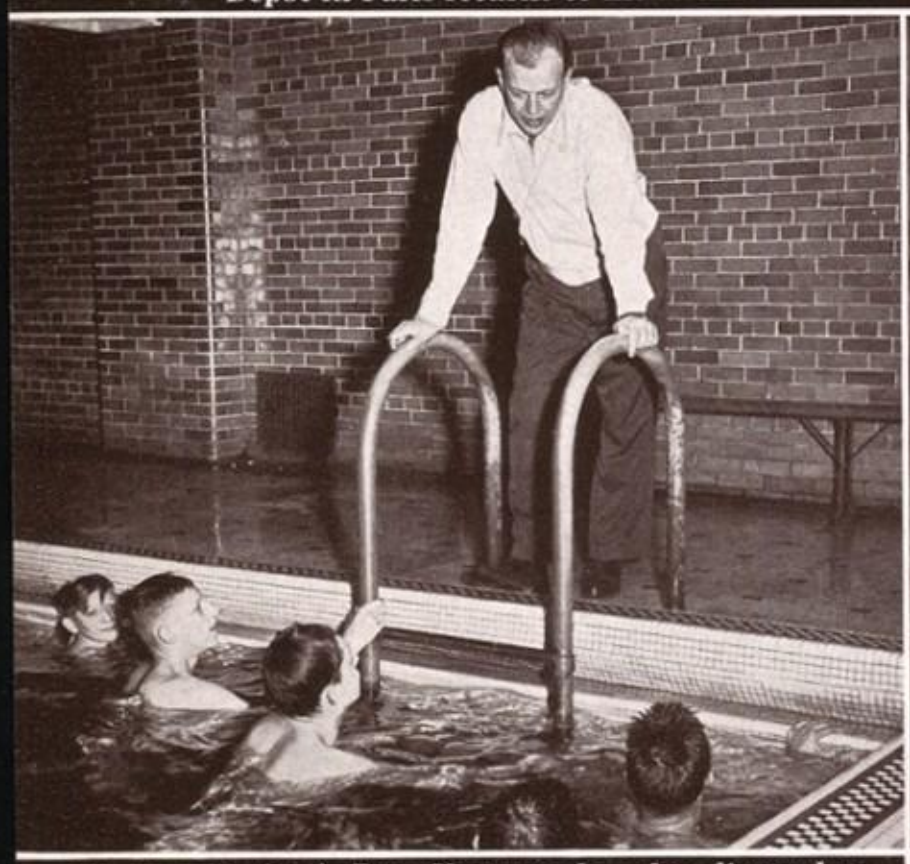
Major S. S. Williams, who for four years was an Army Finance Officer, is shown talking with his son, Tom, Bay View 1938.

Major H. E. Smith, one of the five teachers who were in the service, returns to his history classes at Bay View.



Captain Arthur Hickman of the 63rd Quarter Master Corps Base Depot in Paris returns to his science classes.

Lieutenant Ralph Book, who had been Communication Officer at Kodiak, Alaska, is back in the Commercial Department.



Lieutenant (j.g.) Ray Kaczmarek, who directed a gunnery crew is now teaching swimming at Bay View.

Mr. Kaczmarek, Mr. Hickman, Mr. Book, and Mr. Williams take down their keys when the second semester opens.

For selling $3000 worth of Victory Bonds a homeroom had a light in the Gold Star Hospital. Bay View bought over $400,000 worth.

On Porch Light Night, when students sold Victory Bonds Mr. J. A. Oleson signs up for his bond.

Lois Klemz and Beverly Maier help Mr. Wiley compute war bond sales on a Tuesday.

Every Tuesday, Carol Gundlack, Lois Klemz, Beverly Maier and Betty Anderson checked final bond reports in the library

MEETING THE TIMES

The activities of high school students in support of the war program showed beyond a doubt that young people will spend their energies and educate themselves while doing, once they see the significance of the work to which they have dedicated themselves. War work on the home front, be it remembered, provided an educating experience not only for the intellectually elite, but also for many students who in the old days would have done no more than to submit with docility to their high school training.

Now it has become the problem of the high school teacher to create a motivation for all learning similar to the one made by war. It has become the problem of each teacher to try to bring to each child such a motivation, for once a student sees the value for himself of what he studies, he will give himself the disciplines necessary to learning. What he is to learn depends on his needs and his interests. The school curriculum must differ for each student, must change with the changing years.

Always, however, as ours is a democracy providing education for the many, not schooling for a few, the aim of teachers must ever be the same: to make of each boy and each girl an individual whose capacities, mental, physical, and social are fully developed — to make of him, in short, a worthy citizen of our United States.

DR. BERNHARD C. KORN

ADMINISTRATION

DR. FOX, Vice-Principal

A teacher at Bay View who really knows how war and the conversion to peace-time living affects one and all, is Dr. Fox, for all year long he has passed on the excuses brought by absentees. He knows the chronically sick who always look well; he knows those who have to help out at home; he knows all the luckless ones who contract contagious diseases; he knows those students who like pleasant spring days. He reads all the excuses daily, and in spite of them maintains his good sense of humor.

When he has completed his check for the day and handed his reports to the office for the final records, he becomes once more a scholarly teacher of English, the author of a well-known handbook in grammar and a text in composition; a wise, human, delightful raconteur whose stories beginning with "Now, when I was a boy," have delighted classes for many years. Here is a man who has watched the changing fashions in English teaching along with the changing dress of his students. He knows that however much the outer appearance changes, students are not very different from their parents and that the work of an English teacher still concerns the whole of living, not just the narrow limits of a text.

LIFE ADVISEMENT

MR. WHITCOMB, Chief Counselor

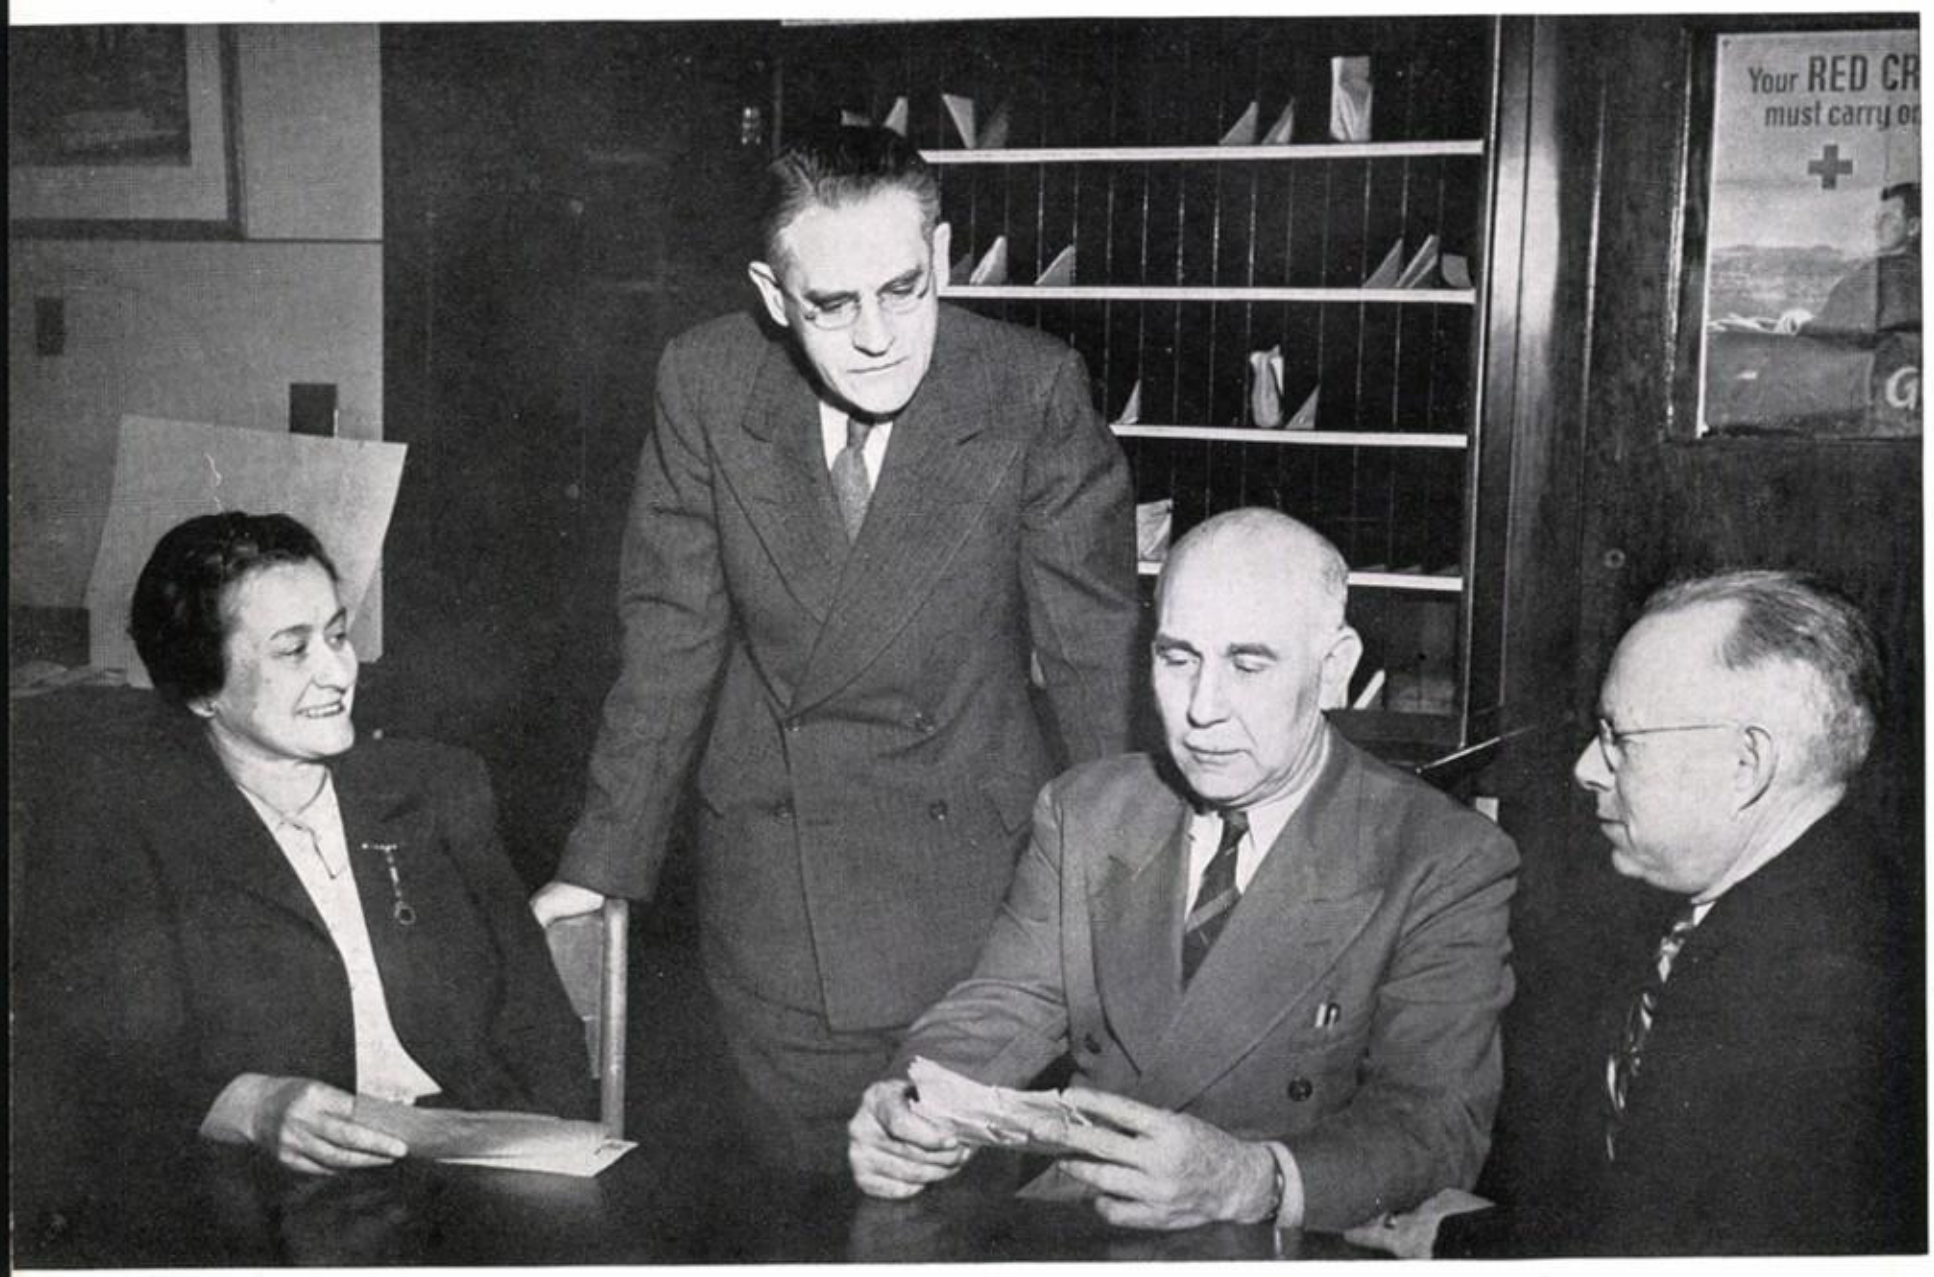
With the close of the war, the problems confronting the counseling staff have come to include not only those relating to students now enrolled, but also those of many former Bay View students. Frequently during the war years boys were called to the service of their country before they had completed their high school course. Now these boys are coming back, day by day to pick up the loose ends in their educational programs and go on.

In attempting to discover just where a returning veteran belongs in the school system, the counselor begins, of course, with the high school record. Then he tries to determine whether there are high school credits earned for work in established service schools in the army, navy, marine corps or coast guard. Recognized service schools are those listed in the handbook prepared by the American Council on Education.

If, even with these military credits added the veteran does not have the requirements for graduation, the counselor plans how the serviceman can complete his high school course and earn his diploma.

Although the war has ended, the emotional unrest it caused still prevails among students, and it is the counselor's function to try to neutralize the effects of war and prevent young people from making hasty decisions to be regretted in the years to come.

A counselor, working with the homeroom teacher, tries to help boys and girls to understand themselves and appreciate the opportunities offered them at Bay View.



Miss Statz, Mr. Wiley, Mr. Gillo, Mr. Suttle

Each semester a counselor begins to establish himself as a friend of the incoming freshmen by going to the grade schools in the district to interview personally those who plan to enter high school. With the student's past record before him, he gives advice as to the course of study to be pursued. This year the counselors were accompanied on these visits by students who had graduated from the various grade schools, and were able to offer the freshmen-to-be advice from their own experience at Bay View.

The counselor works with one group for four years, and finally presents them for graduation. Through all that period, he co-operates with classroom and homeroom teachers in an earnest effort to direct and guide the student to develop good study habits, to adjust socially to his elders and to those of his own age, to lead in outside activities if he can, and to know himself and understand where he wants to go.

If the 1946 Oracle Annual, the first peacetime yearbook since 1941, seems different from its predecessors, it is because this annual represents not the work of a small group of persons, but the combined effort of many. The 1946 Oracle Annual contains more student photography than any Bay View annual of the last ten years. Page layouts were planned and pictures cut accordingly, in school. Many student writers aided in supplying the annual copy.

As in other years, it was the work of the editors to plan the book page by page and to select pictures and copy. They learned first hand by contacts with photographers, engravers, and printers, the technical problems that occur in the process of preparing a book of this type for printing and binding.

The entire student body pledged its support when, during the Oracle Annual campaign early in March, the total number of subscriptions for the 1946 Oracle Annual greatly exceeded the enrollment of the school.

Members of the Oracle staff, many of whom received their training at a time when war crowded the pages of the newspaper, found themselves suddenly with what they felt was a dearth of news and forced to see the less dramatic stories which always abound in a large high school. It was a real experience for the staff to discover the news value in stories that for years had been overshadowed by war.

Both semesters the crews worked together like a well-oiled machine to produce a newspaper worthy of the name of the Bay View Oracle.

BOYS' CLUB

Nels Goodmann, Treasurer; John Kern, Sergeant-at-Arms; Floyd Reigel, President; Al Barry, Secretary; Arnold Mavis, Vice-President

The Boys' Club aims to initiate all the boys at Bay View into the world where men live with men, to make them conscious of the social amenities, and to develop in some the qualities of leadership. The faculty advisors of Boys' Club are trying to guide the boys to leadership by stepping out of the picture as much as possible.

This attitude consciously assumed by the faculty has aided all of the members of Boys' Club. It has not only benefited the leaders who now carry additional responsibilities, but it has also stimulated in many of the student body the desire to become leaders. The results of this new program have been extremely gratifying to the teachers in charge. As was expected, the officers of the club have taken the added responsibility in stride, and they are becoming less dependent upon faculty supervision in planning and working out their programs.

BOYS' CLUB

For example, at a joint meeting of Girls' and Boys' Clubs held in the auditorium early in the second semester, the program was planned and sponsored solely by the officers of the two clubs. At this meeting a quiz was conducted, the girls competing against the boys. Not only did the student leaders choose the contestants and pick a board of judges to keep score of the quiz, but they also drew up questions appropriate for a quiz of this nature.

Boys' Club believes also in arousing interest in other activities around Bay View, especially athletics. In this spirit it awards a trophy annually to the winner of the under-class cross country run, better known as the Marathon.

In addition to this, Boy's Club sponsors a swimming demonstration so that its members may become acquainted with the different aquatic events.

GIRLS' CLUB

Girls' Club, the largest club at Bay View, is designed to give social experience and entertainment to girls in all four years of their high school life. Freshmen come to Bay View from parochial schools as well as from six grade schools, Dover, Humboldt Park, Mound, Riley, Trowbridge, and Fernwood. They know only the girls from their grade school and those whom they meet in their classes. Girls' Club gives them the opportunity to get acquainted not only with other freshmen girls, but also with sophomores, juniors, and seniors. In girls who by force of personality rise above the group, the club develops leadership. They learn to conduct meetings and to handle the responsibilities which come with holding office. Girls' Club is a club for the girls, and by the girls.

GIRLS' CLUB

At each meeting of Girls' Club a program is presented, under the direction of one of the officers. Last fall the meetings consisted of style shows, a play entitled, "The Bridegroom Waits," a party in the girls' gym at which a jitterbug contest was held, a variety show, and a meeting for the election of new officers. At Christmas time Girls' Club, as it did the previous Christmas, took charge of packing gifts by students for servicemen.

For the second semester the Girls' Club presented a Truth or Consequences show, a lecture on Virginia by Philip Noble, a quiz program with contestants from both Boys' Club and Girls' Club, a style show, and a marionette show. Following its usual custom, Girls' Club gave fifty dollars to the G. A. Fritsche Memorial Scholarship, which was established to honor the first principal of Bay View High School.

GERMAN GROUP

Robert Scherkenbach, Marilyn Lange, Donald Gruettner

Bay View boys who, during the war, were sent to the four corners of the earth, learned by experience the value of a knowledge of a foreign tongue, and through their letters home, stimulated in young brothers and sisters an interest in languages.

It was partly because of the natural curiosity of students about the far-away countries to which their brothers had been sent that the Foreign Language Club sponsored Bay View's part in the collection of clothing for war-torn countries. A representative of the club in each homeroom took charge of collecting and sorting the garments and getting them to the collection station. The school contributed over 10,000 garments, including outgrown shoes, last year's dresses, and small sweaters and socks.

During the drive, students attached a friendly letter to each piece of clothing with the hope of receiving an answer from an overseas friend. To aid in the publicity for the clothing collection, Col. L. B. Von Spach, in charge of the distribution of clothing in Eastern Macedonia, spoke to the entire student body on the suffering and destitution of the Greeks.

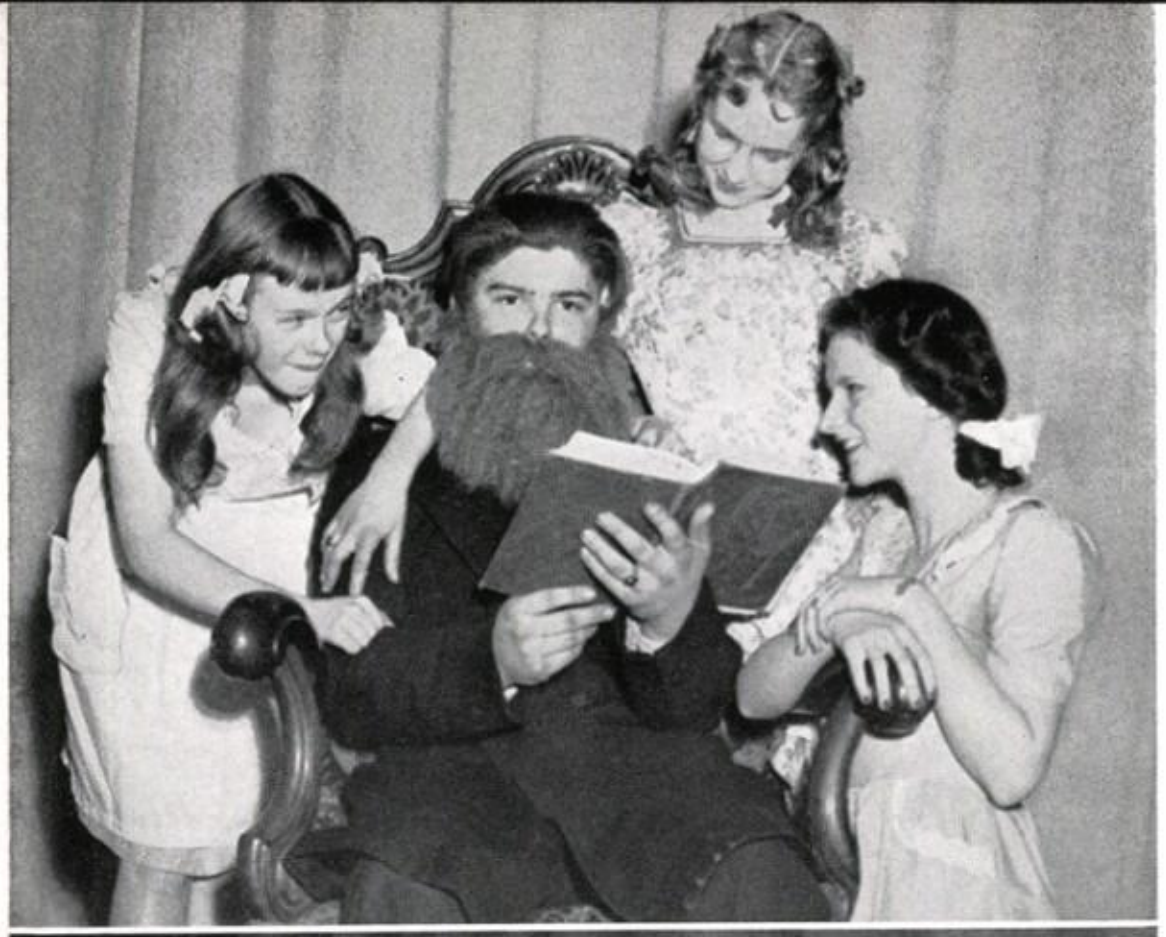
CAESAR'S COURT

The club, which is scheduled regularly every other Tuesday, has general meetings held with the object of presenting to all the members a glimpse of the life and culture of the peoples whose languages are studied in Bay View classes. The programs furnish entertainment and develop interest.

The smaller group meetings are often conducted in the foreign language being studied by the members. Sometimes a visitor who thinks in the language and is completely at home in it speaks to the group.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUB



ROUND TABLE

The members of Round Table are given a touch of everything from Shakespeare to slapstick. Although it is essentially a literary society, the officers do not hesitate to go off the beaten track if the result will be interesting to the members. Of course, true to the traditions of the club, the general meetings are conducted by the president, but the sectional groups, each under the direction of a chairman, are varied and informal.

There is a dual purpose in having sectional meetings. Besides giving a wider range of interests, they provide an opportunity for more students to be on the programs. For anyone interested in music there is the music section; for anyone with a flair for acting there is the dramatic section; for anyone with a liking for reading or reasoning, there is the literary and debate section.

The election skits at the beginning of the new semester are fun. The movies which are presented are always an attraction to members. Even Shakespeare and Longfellow are made interesting by the programs in their honor.

ROUND TABLE

Not only do the members of Round Table benefit from the programs presented by the club, but so does the rest of the school.

The Thanksgiving celebration is given annually under the auspices of Round Table. The observance last year gave emphasis to the theme of peace. A tableau showing a family whose son had come home from the service illustrated the fact that in November, 1945, there was the first peacetime celebration of Thanksgiving in three years. The President's proclamation was read, and the coming of the first settlers to America was depicted in a pantomime, while two narrators told the story of the first Thanksgiving.

An autumn dance, given by the club and attended by both members and nonmembers, was one of the highlights of the fall semester. Added to the regular dancing program were skits and novelty singing.

This spring, in place of the usual outdoor Arbor Day program, students had a chance to see a natural color motion picture and lecture on American birds and big game.

These programs are given for all the school by one of its oldest clubs, Round Table.

Headed by a student manager, and assistant and sectional student chairmen, the Science Club provides meetings that are both instructive and entertaining. The sectional chairmen are selected by popular vote in the various sections, and the managers are chosen by these chairmen.

Although there are general meetings of the Science Club, much of the work is done in small groups designed to give many students an opportunity to offer scientific demonstrations or present information before others.

The naturalists and home gardeners gave topics on landscaping and showed how to make homes attractive by improving their settings. They took field trips and long walks on which they were helped to identify the trees growing in the Bay View section of the city.

The amateur chemists performed experiments in electroplating and determining the concentration of various acids by the use of bases with known concentration. Hand lotions, synthetic rubber, and tooth powder were some of the useful and practical concoctions of these scientists of tomorrow.

Instruction and practice in flying and repairing an airplane were given to the members of the aeronautics section by the presentation of movies and by actual laboratory work.

One of the general meetings in the first semester that is particularly well remembered was that at which a movie, "To Greater Vision," was shown. Through it students learned of the production and use of different types of lenses for optical instruments.

As in previous years, the Science Club held a Freshman party which provided fun for all, and gave the freshmen a chance to get acquainted.

MAKING OPERETTA SETS

ART CLUB

The work of the Art Club is almost constantly in evidence, for scarcely a day goes by that some poster, whether it be for a club election, Oracle campaign, or auditorium program, cannot be seen in the school corridors—not to mention the advertising displays before the mural.

This year, as usual, the programs for the class play, music festival, and operetta were designed by enthusiastic art students, who, recognizing that their drawings would be judged both for originality of conception and skill in execution, competed among themselves for the honor of having their work decorate the programs.

CAMERA CLUB

Student photographers took pictures for the Oracle newspaper and the Oracle Annual throughout the entire year, but it was only at the beginning of the second semester that they invited all students interested in photography to join them in a Camera Club. It was then that enthusiastic camera fans learned the essentials of photography under the excellent guidance of Mr. Kyper and his student assistants. The members of the club specialized in lighting, effective use of shadows, developing, and enlarging.

Inspired by their ambitions, amateur photographers put to use their new-found knowledge. Still lifes, outdoor scenes, and portrait studies were made with care and then brought to club officials for criticism.

GORSKI'S CREW

Visitors at Bay View's operettas, class plays, and music festivals not only have complimented the cast, stage crew, and radio crew for their work in making the show a success, but they usually have also a word of praise for the splendid job done by the Usher Corps. Clad in their smart red and black uniforms, the well-mannered ushers add a touch of formality to every occasion.

Besides being of service to the school at these performances, the ushers take over in the auditorium during the lunch hours and at all school convocations. Each year, moreover, the Usher Club sponsors a talent show and uses the proceeds from the show to support a fund which gives aid to indigent pupils. Mr. Book and Mr. Osterndorf are the faculty advisors.

PROJECTION CREW

Kneeling: Thomas Koch, Edward Hammer, Kenneth Andersen
Standing: Lyle Thompson, Roland Rutzen, Robert Andersen, Clemens Smiech, Richard Lawrence, Duane Kopfer, Richard Schoofs, Leonard Rose

Because of the increasing demand for visual education in the classrooms of Bay View, it was found necessary to train a group of students to manipulate the projection equipment and show educational movies.

Under the capable direction and instruction of Mr. Lorenz, a mechanical drawing teacher, the crew was organized and became an efficient and capable group of boys assisting the classroom teachers. Besides showing educational movies during class periods, these boys ran the projector for many an eighth hour performance. Among these were Life Advisement programs on such subjects as manners, kindness to animals, and vocational opportunities. The senior boys were often called to the auditorium from their homerooms to see movies on different branches of the service, movies explaining the advantages and conditions attendant on their enlistment.

The clubs in Bay View, moreover, would probably not be the success they are if it were not for a few well-chosen movies. Sometimes in order to raise the funds necessary to keep it a going concern, a club like the Art Club puts on a full length sound movie chosen by the students. Frequently world travelers and adventurers like Max Nohl and Aloha Baker bring illustrated lectures which are sponsored by various clubs and seen by the student body at exceedingly low prices.

ANNOUNCERS

Morning and afternoon, student announcers bring to the school the news of Bay View. They give directions, read office announcements, and keep everyone informed of all activities. Special programs, including sidewalk reporting and on-the-spot broadcasts are given with the finish of professional work.

The announcers are chosen by speech and English classes. The students make the selection without knowing the names of the contestants; consequently, the choices are made on interpretation and quality of voice.

RADIO CREW

Supporting the announcers is an efficient crew of technicians working under Mr. Lorentz.

STAGE CREW

As the curtain falls on the last night of a performance, whether it be an operetta or a class play, the members of the stage crew give a sigh of relief, knowing that long nights of rehearsal, at which stage hands must be present, are over, and that the back-stage life can again return to its normal routine of style shows, quiz programs, and club skits.

The crew is divided into three groups: managers, electricians, and stooges. A manager is chosen for long service and reliability. The boy that holds this position must have a good understanding of all stage equipment and a knowledge of how to handle situations when they arrive without seeking help from the faculty advisor. The electrician is the technical worker of the crew. He is responsible for all kinds of lighting. He must be alert and clear thinking. Any production could be ruined by a slow, bungling hand at the switchboard. The stooge, who has the lowest position on the crew, learns everything by experience. He does such jobs as rope coiling, floor sweeping, and furniture moving, until he is thoroughly at home on the stage.

When the three groups, which are under the direction of Mr. Weller, work together as one unit, it is evident that unsung heroes though they are, they will do all that can be done to give a performance the professional touch.

FINAL SCENES—CLASS PLAY

"SEVENTEEN"

Life for the teenager as it was before the war influenced young people and as it may be in years to come was depicted in the annual class play, Tarkington's "Seventeen." Under the direction of Miss Pierson, the well-chosen cast brought much unexpected gaiety to the audiences which thronged the Bay View auditorium on December 4 and 5.

Russell Long played the humorous part of Willie Baxter, the trouble-making juvenile lead, with Patricia Baltes, the baby-talk-lady, opposite him. The impatient father, Royce Komorowski, and the understanding mother, Gloria Fricker, provided contrast for the two leads. Making life miserable for "Atta-boy-Baxter" was Colleen Laufenberg, who portrayed Janie, his younger sister; and adding difficulties to the plot, were Willie's friends Johnny, Louis Rajchel; May, Emily Wry; and Joe, Richard Schneider. As Genesis, the faithful negro servant of the Baxter family, George Bauch added to the over-all success of the performance.

When the curtain fell on the last scene, the audience, knowing a nostalgia perhaps for the old days when Willie Baxters were not uncommon, strolled liesurely out of the auditorium into the night.

"SALLY, IRENE, AND MARY"

"Sally, Irene, and Mary" with its theme of the rise of a little Eastsider from the tenements of New York to fame on Broadway, furnished colorful entertainment for audiences that crowded the Bay View auditorium May 3 and 4. The story, obviously improbable, provided an excellent opportunity for characterization by Roberta Casey, Bob Knutzen and Joan Kitzrow, and continuity for the songs and the dance and comedy hits of the evening.

DANCE BAND

From the beginning of the school year, through the football season to the June commencement exercises, the Senior Band is an important part of school activity. It leads the Homecoming parade and is present at all football rallies. Its precise, well-coached maneuvers, led by the drum major and attractive majorettes in smart uniforms, are eagerly awaited between the halves at every football game.

Under the capable baton of Miss Goldsmith, the band led the Victory convocations every Tuesday morning until Christmas, and with the conclusion of the war program began intensive training for the Music Festival in January. It was the presentation of the memorable "Carribean Fantasy" and "Rhapsody in Blue" that won enthusiastic applause from the audiences.

Throughout the year, the band rises to any occasion, whether it be a surprise convocation or an outside entertainment. Cheerfully, members of the band provide spirited music at Scout programs and entertain for civic organizations. Outstanding musicians are often called upon to perform as soloists or in groups for school programs and other special performances.

Representatives of the band were selected and sent to rehearsals for the All-City Music Festival Band, and some were chosen for the operetta and class-play orchestras.

SENIOR BAND

SENIOR ORCHESTRA

The Senior Orchestra, under the able direction of Miss Conley, highlighted an eventful year by having twenty of its members selected for the All-City Orchestra.

With its well-chosen selections the orchestra delighted audiences between acts at the annual Senior Class play, and later in the semester participated in the Music Festival, when it featured Mozart's Concerto in E Minor, with Doris Stamitti as soloist.

During the year, the ensemble, made up of members of the Senior Orchestra, entertained at numerous programs throughout the community.

Captain Neitzel

The season of 1945 opened very well with a victory and a tie, but as the year progressed, injuries took many of the players off the bench. Despite these losses, the remaining boys went on to play some very good games and to score on one of the best teams in the city.

The loss of Fred Sauer through injury was a serious handicap to the team because of his punching drive that sparked the scoring attack in the first games. And Cal Luther, whose powerful punting pulled the team out of many tight spots, was missed in important games because of a broken wrist.

FOOTBALL

BOYS' TECH—14-0

The enthusiasm was built up by the first game of the season as the Bay team showed power and drive when they defeated the Tech Boilermakers. Fred Sauer, Bay halfback, set the pace as he rolled up consistant yardage in long runs.

WEST—7-7

The Red and Black squad failed to take advantage of many scoring opportunities in the second game of the season and West's grid-men gained a 7-7 tie.

SOUTH—0-28

South side rivalry flamed once again as the Bay View gridders clashed with the South Division Cardinals in a double homecoming tussle, which South won 28-0. Ed White and quarterback Cal Luther furnished thrills for the Viewite rooters with their long runs.

CUSTER—0-33

In the only afternoon game of the entire Bay View schedule, the Red and Black team went forth to meet the Custermen and a 33-0 defeat.

WASHINGTON—7-53

Jack Fonaas, the diminutive fullback furnished one of the most spectacular and exciting moments at North stadium, when he reeled off an 82 yard run scoring the only touchdown for the Red and Black.

NORTH—0-47

South stadium was the scene of the last game and the last defeat for Bay View in the 1945 football season. There, the North Division grid-men rolled over the Red and Black with the score of 47-0. Jack Fonaas was again outstanding on Bay offense when he went off tackle for a 40-yard run.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Bay View Cross Country team finished another successful season by winning the Wisconsin State High School Championship for the third successive year. Starting with a practically new squad the team won seven and lost one duo meet, placing second in the City Championships to South, but coming back a week later to trounce the City Champions in the State Meet. Bay View also won the South Side Championships for the third successive time.

Leading honors went to Captain Jimmy Guhl, followed closely by Captain-elect Bob Heinz and Carl Ruud. At a special sports dinner, Coach Matthei awarded the state champs their emblems. Boys who received major emblems are Jimmy Guhl, Bob Heinz, Carl Ruud, Ralph Tessnow, Lowell Schroeder, Charles Roessger, Herman Olm, and Bob Seemayer.

Minor emblems went to Louis Rajchel and Jimmy Smith.

The Bay View Basketball team highlighted its 1945 season by defeating South Division in the final game of the year. Those boys who earned major emblems were Harry Becker, Jim Luedtke, Calvin Luther, Arnold Mavis, Quentin Nelson, George Pawlak, Donald Piacentine, Ernest Pluskota, and Robert Seemayer.

The frosh-sophomore squad completed a successful season by winning eight games in fifteen starts, and capturing second place in the South Section of the City Conference.

The '46 model Bay View track squad showed strength, as usual, in the running and jumping events. Although the spikesters dropped their first tilt to East Division, they took seven out of thirteen first places, losing by a score of 61 to 52.

Arnold Mavis was high scorer with firsts in both hurdle events and the broad jump, while Bob Stenicka took the 100 and 200-yard dashes.

After the first meet, came the South Side relays, City relays—which were held for the first time this year—sectional trials for the State meet, the State meet, and the City meet.

The Bay View swimming squad, under the direction of Coach Crawford, successfully finished the 1945-46 season by placing third in the State meet and second in the City meet. Bay View finished third in the State meet, behind Wauwatosa and Pulaski. Individual scorers were Jim Blackwood, Nels Goodman, Bob Halfmann, and Wayne O'Connell. Both the medley relay—Vogt, Blackwood, and Reigel—and the 200-yard free-style relay—O'Connell, Suhm, Halfmann, and Sciples took places.

CITY MEET

The City meet this year was one of the closest ever held, Pulaski nosing out Bay View by 1½ points. Individual scorers were Jim Blackwood, Ralph Chrapkowski, Nels Goodman, Bob Halfmann, Wayne O'Connell, Floyd Riegel and Doug Suhm. Both relay teams placed in the City Meet.

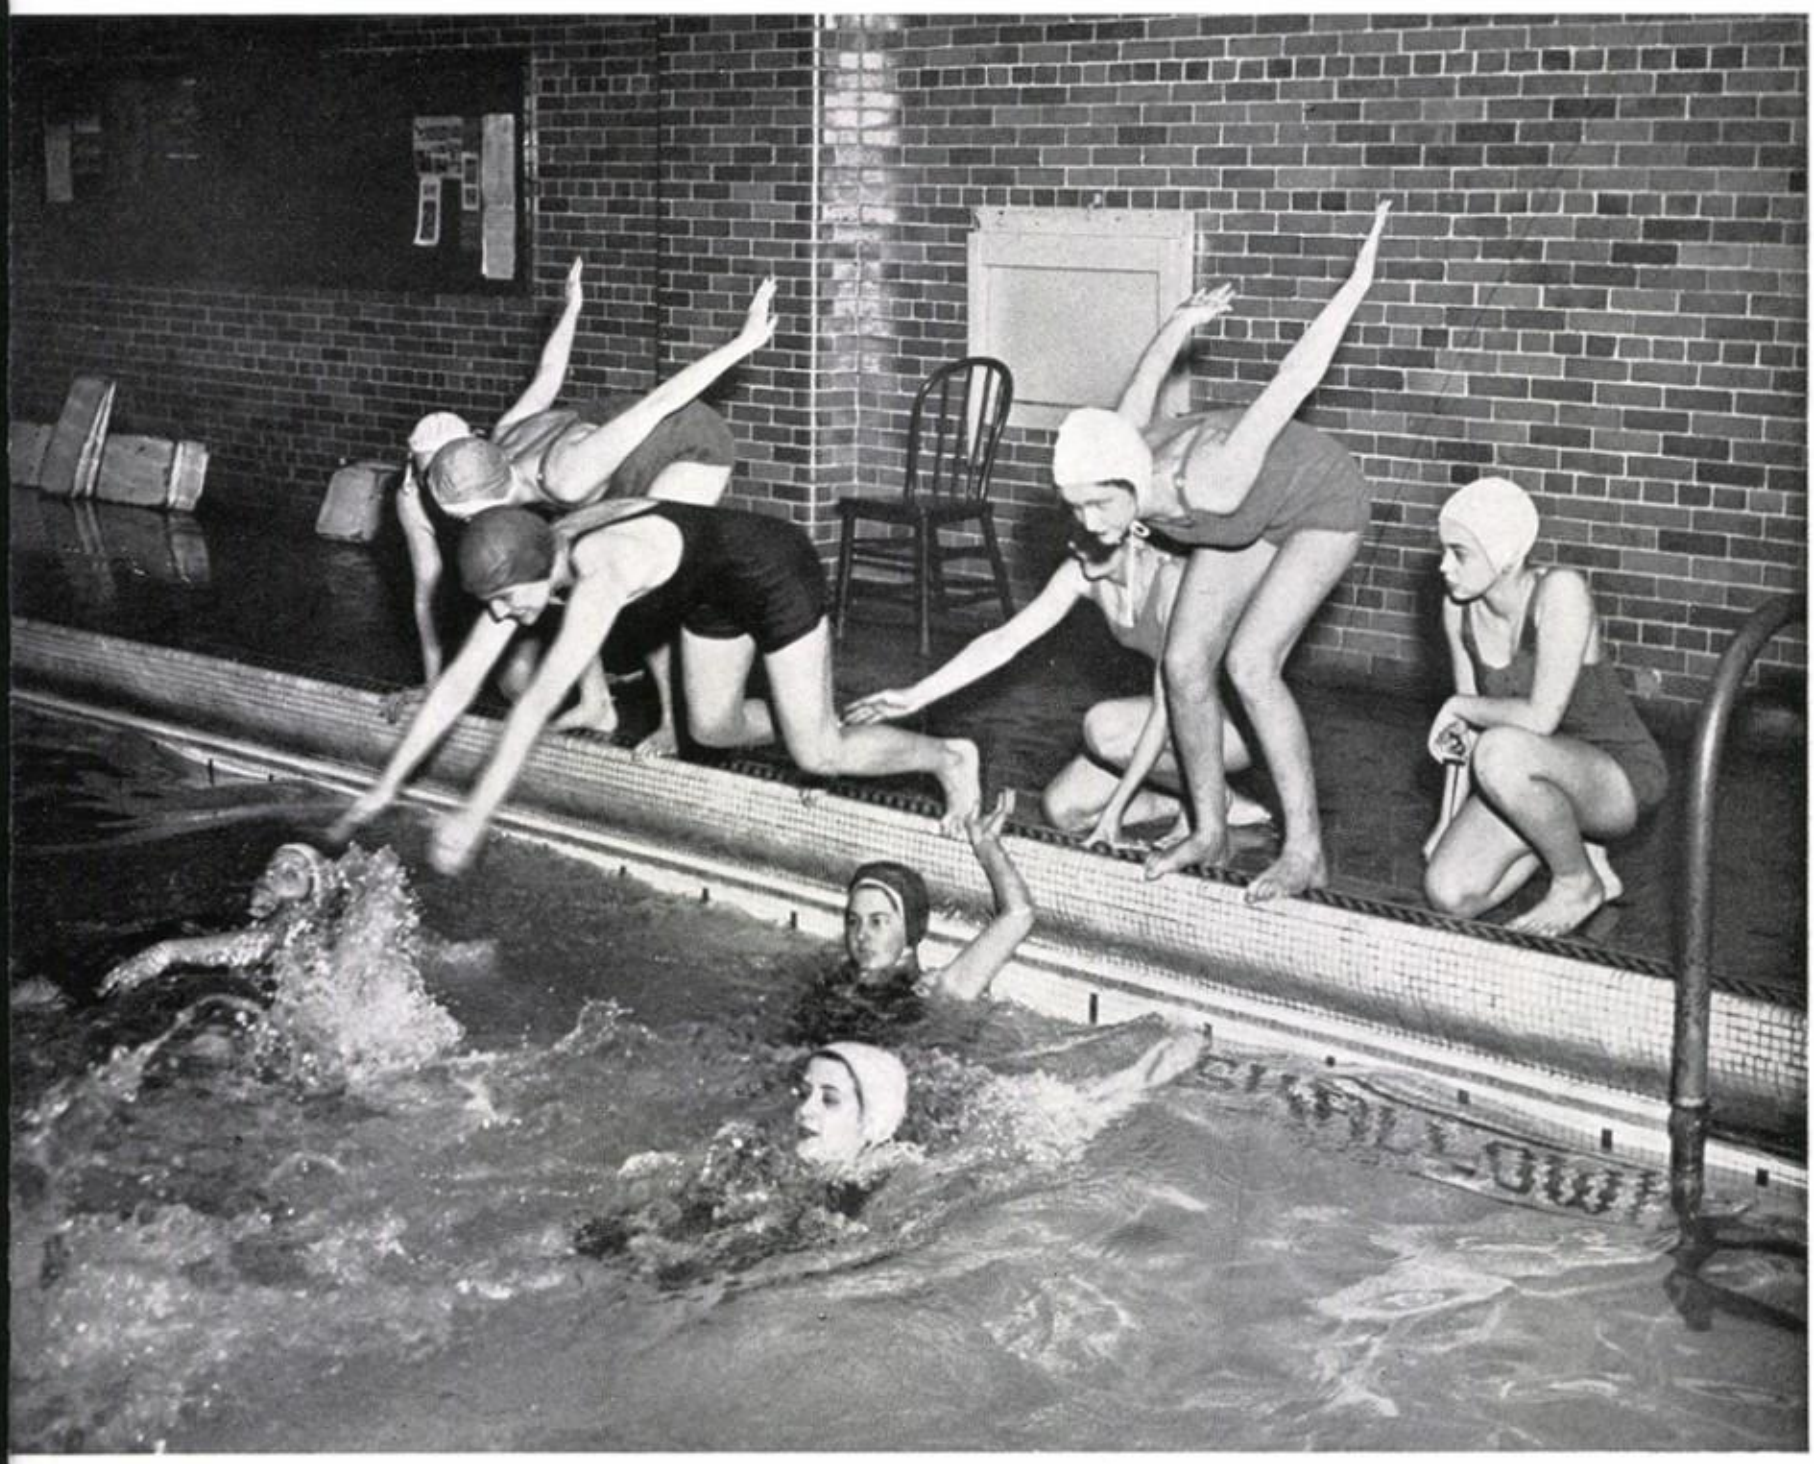
BASKETBALL CHAMPS

In the hard-fought, well-played tennis matches, Mary Ann Poepping won the singles championship while Ruth Bigelow and Carol Halvorsen fought their way to the top in the doubles tournament.

In the basketball tournament, the "Stormers" took first place. The players on the winning team were Joanne House, Arlene Lustig, Shirley Prochaska, Ellen Ziemann, Betty Neitzel, Betty Wildish, Beverly Maier, and Gerry Czahkowski.



NEREIDS IN ACTION

The members of the Life Saving Corps receive their training in the regular fourth-hour Life Saving class, and at the completion of the standard Red Cross course are awarded Life Saving emblems.

New members of the Corps this year were Joan Findlay, Barbara Enkosk, Gwendolyn Galligan, Nancy Heinemann, Rita Jack, Betty Leverenz, Nancy Long, Arleen Lustig, Dorothy Matthei, Nancy Narum, Nancy Neess, Betty Nield, Ruth Schloemer, and Joyce Zimmerman.

Although many girls complete the Life Saving course at Bay View every year, it is the main purpose of the girls' swimming department to see that every girl who graduates from Bay View is able to swim and is aware of personal safety in the water at all times.

Since such great emphasis is placed on swimming skills, it is natural that Nereids, the girls' swimming club, has attracted a large group of members again this year. In the fall semester, Nereids, under the direction of Mrs. Arnold, presented a swimming demonstration for freshman girls, and in the spring sponsored the annual intra-mural girls' swimming meet.

The January graduating class of 1946 was the first class to enter Bay View after Pearl Harbor. They saw the Gold Star list increase from one to fifty-seven. Each memorial broadcast helped them to realize the need for increased war effort. After V-J Day, August 14, 1945, the school activities changed considerably. The Tuesday morning bond convocations were discontinued. War copy ceased to be read on the daily broadcasts. The seniors had their first taste of peace-time living . . . and they liked it.

Thirty-nine members of the class left school to enter the Armed Forces before receiving their diplomas. On January 25, ninety-six graduates received diplomas. Nine additional diplomas were awarded to Bay View men who had completed their high school credits while in service.

The class commission, to which Barbara Drewry, Mary Stewart, James Guhl, Royce Komorowski, and Calvin Luther were elected, was busy during the semester collecting class dues and deciding upon the class gift, a one-hundred-dollar victory bond to be used later in dedicating a memorial to our war dead. Royce Komorowski headed the group in the planning of the senior banquet held in the school cafeteria. One of Dr. Korn's most impressive statements in his talk to the graduates was, "Even after graduation, Bay View is still your school, ready to serve you at all times."

Probably the one subject the graduates had heard most about is the problem of racial prejudice. A statement made by Patricia Keeney, one of the commencement speakers, is significant: "Man's prejudices are strong and intolerance is not easily eradicated. If we can completely forget such phrases as Dago, shanty Irish, stubborn Limey, Nigger, Chink, Polak, and the like, we shall have taken a long step toward that ideal of complete accord, for the feeling behind these derogatory nicknames is the fundamental cause of all war."

Royce Komorowski, Mr. Crawford, Gerald Reuter, James Felske, James Guhl, Carl Ruud

The January graduates of 319 have been together since they were 10 A's. At that time, they were assembled as a composite of many homerooms that had been disbanded, but they held their own intellectually, for they had the X Club plaque every time except once during all of their two and one-half years.

The advisor, Mr. Crawford, coach of the swimming team, was their inspiration to excel in athletics. They had representatives on the football team, swimming team, track team, and they had the captain of the cross country team—all within their four walls. Three athletes, namely James Guhl, Carl Ruud, and James Felske, plus two all-around good sports, Royce Komorowski and Gerald Reuter, represented the group in homeroom activities. However, the girls were not to be outdone. The room had two championship basketball team members, the tennis champion, the badminton champion, two officers of Nereids' Club, and members of the volley ball team! A service flag with seven blue stars on it represented students who entered service before the time of graduation.

There were also in the group two officers of Girls' Club, two students in the senior class play, two on the class commission. The homeroom completed its War Bond hospital unit, and all in all, had a happy and successful homeroom life.

MISS DURHAM 326

The members of Miss Durham's "flock" began their high school career in Room 114. As freshmen they were very good; in fact, the worst thing they ever did was to sit on their huge freshman English books and gaze out the windows at the handsome football and track stars. Every morning they stood at attention as they heard the Call to the Colors, and they realized that they were a part of a larger group inspired by the slogan, "The School at War."

As sophomores they became participants in extra-curricular activities. Fred Sauer and Dick Szukalski began their football careers. The homeroom boasted many musicians—one of them appeared on nearly every program held in the auditorium and was well represented in all of the clubs.

In their junior year they purchased a beautiful service flag on which was placed a blue star for each homeroom member in the Armed Forces.

As seniors they collected paper, continued to buy stamps and bonds, and brought clothes from their wardrobes and from those of the neighbors, an outstanding achievement being one member's contribution of six fur coats.

Then one morning they heard the Senior Counselor say, "Attention, all January graduates." These were the words for which they had waited nearly four years. They knew that they must try to crowd into four months their final contribution, perhaps a news story, a poster for the class play, or another special merit on the report card.

MR. OSTERNDORF 411

A sunny homeroom, 411, numbered twenty-nine students, of whom twenty-three were girls, proving once again, that this is a woman's world. A typical Bay View war homeroom, the students were enrolled in all of the war courses in the curriculum and participated in many of the extra-curricular activities offered. They boasted of a student on the class commission, an editor of the school newspaper, officers of clubs, radio announcers, singers, and dancers. Although not the leaders in war work, they attained one hundred per cent participation in the sale of bonds and stamps. Led by the advisor, Mr. Osterndorf, they learned to study, to work, and to have fun—a combination of activities which they will easily use in their future.

Loralene Eaton, Patricia Keeney, Audrey Krug, and Carol Gundlack contributed much of their time to the work and progress of the homeroom and were chosen as the representative students of 411.

From the group, Uncle Sam called four classmates. Although they could not be present as the rest marched down the aisle in cap and gown on January 24, they will always be remembered as members of 411. One of those boys, serving in the Navy, echoed the sentiments of all. On his Christmas card he saluted "the best homeroom Bay View has ever had."

MISS PRUCHA 333

Doris Lelivelt, Gloria Fricker, Blanche Hoffman, Marion McNicol, Miss Prucha

As members of the "War Class", the first class to enter Bay View during the war, and the first to graduate during peace, Miss Prucha's homeroom learned first hand about the "Schools At War" program. Besides receiving honors sixteen times in the school's sale of War Bonds and Stamps and having an active participation in magazine and paper drives, the homeroom had eight members enter the Armed Forces.

Following the advice received in letters from the students that occupied their homeroom seats before them, the students of 333 always tried to keep a good scholastic average and at the same time took part in many extra-curricular activities. Eight students, Gloria Fricker, Blanche Hoffman, Roy Lachmund, Doris Lelivelt, Calvin Luther, Edgar Makowski, Marion McNicol, and Arlene Sprong, achieved an excellent on at least one or more mark days during their four years. The manager and assistant manager of the stage crew, the captain of the basektball squad, an Oracle reporter, two members of the cast of the senior play, "Seventeen", a member of the class commission, and officers in various school clubs all came from homeroom 333.

One morning at the end of February the senior class filed to the auditorium for the first senior meeting. After four years of anxious waiting, they had finally been invited to meet as graduating seniors. At this time they were informed of the activities in which they would participate during the coming months, preparatory to graduation.

This class of two hundred twenty-nine students made itself famous in its freshman days by winning the all-school key drive, the first salvage drive in the war years, thus earning the title of the "Victory Class."

At the third meeting, the Class Commission was elected. For the second time in the history of the school, the girls on the commission out numbered the boys. Those elected included Marie Meyer, Nathalie Perry, Joyce Broge, James Blackwood, and Gaston Fiorelli. It was the duty of these people to select caps and gowns, and decide on the class gift, a one-hundred dollar bond to be added to a fund for a memorial to Bay View gold star veterans.

For the first time the commencement program included a panel discussion, participated in by five members of the class. Commemorating the one hundredth birthday of Milwaukee, the students spoke of the part Bay View has played in developing our city, and thus made real the slogan of 1946: "Saluting the past; challenging the future."

MISS BATZ 402

On a bright morning in September, 1942, about forty students found themselves objects of much amusement to hundreds of juniors and seniors in West Study Hall, which was to be their home for the next two years. Every Wednesday during this time they went up to 418 for Life Advisement with Miss Batz, and, oh, the ninth hours.

Then the great day came! In their junior year, by some miracle, the study-hall orphans were finally given a home of their own. Bag and baggage they were shipped to 402, where the gentle pounding of adding machines resounded in their ears.

They also enjoyed several parties! At the close of their junior year they had a beach party to bid farewell to three of the boys who had left for military service during the summer vacation. They were almost victims of a catastrophe when they had their Christmas party. The committee forgot to get the cupcakes from the bakery, but, luckily, a machine demonstrator came to the rescue.

The funds for the graduation party were provided by a bank, the little "Gold-digger." To build a treasury, the home room adopted a set of rules, fining gum-chewers, during-broadcast-talkers, window-hanger-outers, shade-zippers, and the usual assortment of practical jokers.

Although the homeroom was a small one, it was not lacking honor. Homeroom 402 had sportsmen, writers, officers, actors and singers; they held the honor plaque during the entire senior year.

MR. COSTELLO 414

High school life began for 414 when all of the "W's" and one "H" of the freshman class followed Miss Carol De la Hunt to their new homeroom, 234. Every moment of that year was enjoyable, even the exercises she had them do to correct their postures. When they came back to school the next fall, they were all shocked and grieved by the news of Miss De la Hunt's death, and wondered who the new homeroom teacher would be. Their curiosity was soon satisfied when they were directed to Mr. Costello in 414. By this time the original homeroom had been augmented by new students, and the group was a little larger. After a few months Mr. Costello became ill and the rest of the sophomore year was presided over by Mrs. Stokke.

Mr. Costello was able to return in the fall. Many amusing incidents happened in the next two years. One object which caused many laughs is the sign which still appears on the front board—"Sneezers and Coughers cover nose and mouth with handkerchiefs." Many of the students can testify to the strict enforcement of this rule.

None of the group will ever forget Bay View, and many times they will wish that they were back in "good old 414." Their motto for these four years could easily be, "Something doing all the time."

MRS. GRIMES 226

It was the morning of September 8, 1942, that homeroom 226 was organized. Like every other homeroom they've had their problems, but all in all, these past four years have been wonderful and they shall never be forgotten.

When homeroom 226 entered Bay View as freshmen, World War II was in progress and there were many drives in which the homeroom participated: namely, magazine, key, clothing, and bond. All of them purchased stamps or bonds every Tuesday, and they were proud to earn the Minute-man banner several times.

Every homeroom is proud of the students who participate in Bay View activities and 226 is certainly proud of its two swimmers, two track men, two members of the football team, and several lifesavers. Members of the homeroom who merit recognition are Barbara Krainik and Marlyn Knueppel; they kept the homeroom as orderly as was possible during the past four years. In addition, the group were represented on the Glee Club, Choir, the Oracle staff, and among the "bond typists." Two members of the homeroom are in the Armed Forces.

The graduates are sorry to leave, but they hope the incoming freshmen who will make up homeroom 226 in September, 1946, will enjoy themselves as much as they did.

Small things add up to make 321 the best "home" one could possibly desire. Especially impressive was the ambitious reaction to all activities during war and during peace. Lake Michigan, viewed from the homeroom, must have been an inspiration to four boys who joined the maritime services. They are represented by four stars on the five-star service flag, near which is hung the first freshman purchase, an American flag.

Though they were never awarded the X Club plaque, 321 received an unseen plaque awarded for helpfulness, cheerfulness, and a willingness to work together in every venture proposed. However, not always was this plaque unseen, for many times the students were found in mute silence, munching contentedly on delicious doughnuts, an award from Miss Lane for successful accomplishments.

Several artists helped in many ways to bring life and color into the room with pictures of seasonal significance; especially vivid were the humorous Christmas carolers arrayed in bow-ties.

In charge of guidance were a president and a secretary, elected each semester. The homeroom knew what transpired in the lives of many Bay View servicemen at war, because for three and one-half years they worked on the service file in their room.

Ruth Cegielski, who has completed her entire high school course while ill at home, will graduate as a member of 321, having completed her work with a visiting teacher.

Now, taking with them these happy memories, they leave 321 to others to cherish as they have.

The key drive, organized to collect hard-to-get metals, gave 318 its first taste of interclass competition. From the first week of school, the homeroom participated in the stamp and bond sales, and to prove how they felt about being part of the Victory Class, they frequently won the Minute-man banner.

Homeroom 318 as a sophomore group still carried a substantial load of the regular weekly bond drives, receiving an award for being among the top three almost every week. Weekly paper drives were conducted in the school, and students brought their bundles to aid in the fight. When the school participated in neighborhood clean-ups, some students acted as paper troopers and others made certain there would be paper on the curbs. To top their awards, they received the much desired scholastic plaque.

During the junior year they were put in charge of the weekly magazine drives. Piles of books and magazines appeared in all homerooms because of publicity over the public address system, and one of the students was selected girl-representative on the City Victory Corps.

Their advisor, Mrs. Lynch, has been a real friend to them throughout their four years at Bay View.

MISS MILLER 332

In September, 1942, room 332 was filled to capacity by all freshmen with a last name beginning with S, but during the four-year stay, constant changes were made until now the alphabet is quite well represented.

It was in the junior year they organized their C.O.C. Club. They will long remember the multi-colored afghans displayed in the front of the room before they were sent to the Red Cross, and laugh they will in recalling the eighth hours spent by the expert bobby-sox knitters teaching boys to knit, while in a corner there was a chuckle, followed by the clipping of a scissors as someone found an article to be used in one of the six U.S.O. Scrap Books they completed.

Five years from now they will find what wonderful housekeepers 332 had, for besides the daily desk check which everyone made, there was the shelf-straightener, who refused to permit one book to be out of line; the window-tender, and the pencil-sharpener engineer. Not once could the monitors put Shirley Prochaska's name on the absence sheet . . . perfect attendance for four years!

Oh, yes, 332 will be remembered. One can't easily forget the Spanish calendars and posters, the scrape in the cabinet window, the six red Spanish-English dictionaries, and the various Spanish tests being given during the seven hundred sixty-eight hours they spent together.

MRS. SHUTES 234

"Never a dull moment" seemed to be the motto of 234, although it might well have been "Variety is the spice of life." The homeroom was active, for members of the Swimming Team, Life Saving Corps, officers of clubs, operetta groups, and Oracle editors have developed in 234. In their freshman year the homeroom was in the East Study Hall and the first Christmas was a memorable one. Miss Statz, the homeroom teacher, had East Study Hall cleared during the eighth hour on the Wednesday before Christmas and then a real Yule party took place. At the beginning of the second semester, Mrs. Shutes became the advisor, but the homeroom remained in East Study Hall until the senior year, when 234 became "home."

For the month of January nothing else could be thought about in the homeroom except the coming "Junior Prom," held in the form of a supper party at the home of Gloria Julian.

To the freshmen who will occupy 234 next September, the homeroom leaves "Miss Dorothy Dix" in the person of Mrs. Shutes, who gladly gives advice of all kinds.

MISS ZARLING 322

The pleasure of others' success has always been shared by 322. They cheered for the participants of auditorium skits and praised the work of their members who broadcast over the public address system. Frequently they rejoiced with homeroom 321 in its victories. Notes of congratulations for some achievement in school activities were often interchanged by the two groups.

The spirit of friendship within the homeroom expressed itself by its festivities. When one of the members left for the army, they sponsored a party at the American Legion in Bay View. They also sent Christmas packages to servicemen. Several times they have written homeroom notes to "the boys" in the service.

Homeroom 322 is proud of the contributions they made to the athletic victories. Some of the highest track scorers were in this homeroom, and they were well represented on the football and basketball teams also. The girls, not to be outdone by the boys, participated in the swimming, tennis, and basketball activities.

All through their four years, homeroom 322 has been helped and guided by Miss Zarling. Whenever they had any questions, she was always willing to give up her time, helping them check their credits, plan their courses, and offering them useful information about business and college life. Homeroom 322 feels ready, now, to face tomorrow.
